

Venture Capital in the Caribbean – Investor/Investee Experience

- Venture Capital investing is the process of joining in the entrepreneurial risk and rewards of a business venture; it as an “investor/investor partnership”
- VC works through a relationship between the Fund Manager and the Investee company

Transformation is a difficult mission because we in the Caribbean avoid our own “development risk”

- ❑ Our idea of risk investing is invest little, extract profit in the shortest time; what strategy do we need? What is important ?
- ❑ The total activity level of the SME sector is important in any economy. But SME impact is self-limiting; very few successful SME companies evolve into regional and global corporates
- ❑ VC is necessary for the big leagues – that is the key transformation ; in that transformation the Investor/Investee relationship is the single most critical success factor

Summary of the Caribbean Experience

- Very little local capital was raised; No sustained development effort; no transformation
- Overall IRR (a ROI measure) closer to 0% than 12%
- Fund Managers learned that VC is a very difficult challenge; it requires relevant experience and skill

Three huge surprises

- The Organisational challenge
- The Management Challenge
- The Governance Challenge

Organisational challenge

1. It was difficult to invest out all the funds raised
  2. OH cost created un-forgiving economies of scale
- A portfolio of small funds could be viable if the managers have the required skills and experience to cover the portfolio mix; otherwise the minimum economic size is probably higher than US$ 50 Million IF fully invested out within 3 years

Management challenge

- Very astute and flexible management is needed to earn the promised IRR ; even the minimum 12% IRR was a difficult target (even though some individual investments produced yields over 25%)
- Innovative structuring and flexible strategic management are on-going Fund Management skills alongside Investee “Support” experience & skills

Governance challenges

- Board Governance is a critical oversight function; it should enhance value by allowing Fund Managers to operate freely; but Boards can cause paralysis, de-motivation, missed opportunities, disconnects, failure to adapt and adjust - all leading to loss of value
- Fund Governance involves Compliance with Investor & funding agreements, local law and regulations; ethics; integrity; it also involves Conformance to policy & strategy which evolve – a major challenge

The single most critical success factor - the Investor/Investee relationship

- ❖ The Investor/Investee relationship is a partnership which both parties want to end as soon as there is enough surplus value to share;
- Until then the relationship must keep the investor “interested” and must “support” the investee – that is the job of the Fund Manager

What does “support” mean?

- Whatever “support” meant 10 years ago that has changed; the needs are more complex today; and services and solutions are more readily available – but are they accessible?
- Fortunately, we have Nicholas Galt and Jeffrey Hall to share their first-hand practical experience with us; they nurtured SMEs that graduated; they both have experience of some form of Venture Capital
